It will thus be seen that the Indian note, if registration fees alone are taken into consideration, is approximately half the English note except in respect of the maximum limit, where the reverse is the case.

The fact has no doubt given rise to the impression that Indian currencies were more heavily taxed than in England. This, however, is very far from being the case. In England a stamp duty is levied on the nominal value of all remittances bearing a share capital, while in English remittances with a capital of £5000 with those payable by an Indian company with a corresponding capital of Rs. 50,000.

The English Company pays:—

As of value in remittance fee	Rs.	2	0	0
Stamp duty on share capital at five shillings per cent.	Rs.	12	10	0
Stamp duty on Memorandum and Articles of Association	Rs.	1	0	0
Total	Rs.	15	10	0
or Rs. 157	Rs.	15	10	0

The Indian company pays:—

As of value fee	Rs.	1	0	0

In connection with a large share capital the proportional difference will be even greater. The Government of India accordingly consider that the registration fees do not call for any reduction. The fee for the £1000 documents at present charged in India is five rupees, and, in England, for the same purpose, is the rate of all documents other than the memorandum or abstract required to be filed with the Companies Office, or a statement required to be filed by the Registrar in a case of a company limited by guarantee. #### DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY, ENGLAND.

London, the 2nd August 1906.

Execution.—By the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry.

No. 2401.—The following letter received from the Government of the East Africa Protectorate is published for general information:—

P.E. (No. 8-26-10.)

THE PORTSMOUTH, KILIM,
East Africa Protectorate,
June 27, 1906.

Sir,

I have the honor to inform you that the Government of the British East Africa Protectorate has recently had under consideration the expediency of enforcing more strictly the provisions of the 1900, regulations which are also found herewith.

2. Section 11 of the original enactment provided that any person appearing to be a prohibited person should be liable to be arrested and detained in custody until he has been released by the Government. In the course of time this restriction was shown to be working as a deterrent to the free movement of persons who might well be returned to the country, and the amendment proposed was accordingly adopted.

3. In the present proposal of the Government, for the security of the country in the event of the deposit of arms and ammunition, such persons have been allowed to be held in order that they may be given the opportunity of making a statement. This enactment has led to abuse and in itself does not appear to be a deterrent. It is now proposed to amend the law by providing that any person who is liable to be arrested and detained in custody until he has been released by the Government should be liable to be arrested and detained in custody until he has been released by the Government.

* The word "prohibited" in the original text of any person who is liable to be arrested and detained in custody until he has been released by the Government.

4. The Government has therefore decided that all immigrants should either make the necessary deposit, or provide the security required, before leaving the ship on arrival in port. The strict enforcement of this regulation will take effect as from the 1st of September 1914 and it has the honor to request that steps may be taken to make this procedure known to those entering the harbor (immigrants in British East Africa mostly arrive). It must be noted that the Government has been unable to find the requisite security will after that date be sent back to him, and the Government of this Protectorate will not hold itself responsible for any expenditure thus incurred.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

C. O. BOWEN,
Chief Secretary to the Government.

Local Governments and Administrations were requested to make the information contained in the letter as widely known as possible, particularly in places from which emigration to British East Africa is believed to be most common. Immigrant emigrants should also be warned of the risks they run in proceeding to the Protectorate if they are unable, before leaving, to deposit the sum at his 50 or to comply with the demand for the requisite security in case of the deposit.

L. DAVIDSON,
Acting Chief Secretary.

Colonial Office, August 16, 1914.

THE MYSORE DASARA INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION, 1916.

PROSPECTUS.

The Dasara Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition will be opened at Mysore on the 1st October 1916 and will continue for a period of three days till the 13th October 1916.

The main object of the exhibition is to showcase the Arts and Industries of the State by presenting a display of the various processes of manufacture and produce of the State together.

1-10-16-2

with similar products turned out in other parts of India. It is proposed to show not only the methods of manufacture generally in vogue but also the improvements that are being introduced with the aid of the Technical Departments of Government as well as the endeavours of the Free Trade Conference. With a view to obtain a collective view of the agricultural and industrial resources of each district in the State, it has been decided to request the District Committees to collect and arrange the exhibits from their districts, such as a separate series. Space will also be reserved to each of the Technical Departments of Government who produce exhibits in the exhibition. It is also contemplated to have a large exhibit of Industrial Machinery in action for which special arrangements have been provided and supply of power will, if desired, also be arranged for. Owing to the difficulty in arranging for the imports of machinery from abroad, it is hoped that the exhibition will be aided by the local Engineering Firms as an opportunity to place on the market Industrial Machinery made in India.

The exhibition is open to all India and it has been decided to make very easy for the unassisted except in cases specially provided for in the accompanying rules. For the convenience of visitors and to encourage trade, sale rooms have been set apart in the Exhibition buildings and permission to put up temporary booths of approved type in the open grounds, will be accorded by the Exhibition Committee. A Post and a Telegraph Office will be opened at the Exhibition premises from the 15th September 1916 and will continue to be maintained up to 15th of December 1916. Special arrangements have been made with the Railway authorities for the unloading of heavy goods on the siding close to the Exhibition. The concessions granted by the Railway Companies in India are noted in the appendix.

An admission fee of annas two per head will be levied for entry into the exhibition buildings and when visitors will also be issued at one anna per head. Motor history tickets between Bangalore and Mysore at a reduced rate entitling the holder for admission into the Exhibition during the whole period, will be arranged for.

The Mysore Exhibition Committee who are responsible for all the arrangements connected with the Exhibition, trust the active co-operation of every one interested in the agricultural and industrial development of India in their endeavours to make the Exhibition as fruitful of results.

G. KANDAKATHA SRI NAHAR,
Secretary.

To

The Secretary,

The Indian Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition,

(Exhibition Building), Mysore.

Sir,

I wish to exhibit the articles as per particulars given in the enclosed form, at the Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition to be held at Mysore in October next.

PILGRIMS

The purpose of this section is to bring into touch with each other women, who, having themselves learnt the value of new appliances and processes, are anxious to lend to their knowledge to others. There is heavy needle-work, basket making, basket weaving, spinning, all these are occupations enjoyed by a large number of women and girls in India, but there remains a still larger number who have neither time nor head space for them. To interest those, it is important to select for exhibition, the best that is made by the hands of women's work, and it is mainly the best in each section of the work that can be considered by the award of medals and prizes.

5. Exhibits which have already won prizes in previous exhibitions cannot compete. They will be accepted as "Long exhibits" or exhibited for sale of space permits.

6. Best and greatest woman's or children's work will be allowed to compete for prizes in this series.

With regard to the award of medals it was at first suggested that longed more strongly to Indian ladies, we should restrict the work to that of Indian use and design; but since European needlework is greatly becoming an important source of income to Indian women, we felt the most object might better be served by making the classes more distinct and by increasing the prizes.

It is hoped that the improved standard of last year's work will be maintained and that Indian ladies will contribute to our greater knowledge and interest. We should also urge any Indian interested in children's work to make the exhibition as widely as possible as the number of exhibits won in by children last year (1914) was most disappointing.

PRELIMINARY REPORT ON THE SCOPE OF ENQUIRY BY THE INDIAN INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION.

I.—Introduction.

1. The statistical information already available regarding the resources of India in raw material, the suitability of the people for export labour, and the probable financial resources of the country, is sufficient to show that there are room and opportunity for a very substantial development of manufacturing and other industries.

2. It will be the business of the Commission, after establishing the fundamental proposition by a critical analysis of the facts, to suggest the most profitable lines of action with the object—

(a) of drawing out capital now lying idle;

(b) of building up an urban population;

(c) of setting on the scientific and technical resources required to test the known raw materials and to design and improve processes of manufacture;

(d) of disseminating the information obtained from researches and from the results of experience in other countries; and

(e) of developing the machinery for

(1) financing industrial colonisations, and

(2) marketing products.

3. As the result of the examination of Government records and preliminary discussion with various authorities, the following suggestions have been made regarding problems likely to come before the Commission. These suggestions are now being discussed among the Local Governments with a view to obtaining further suggestions during the current meeting term.

4. The President will be invited for any suggestions in addition to, or in modification of, those given below to submit them, at the end of the session, it will be possible to sketch out a few programmes for the Commission, and to frame a list of questions for the assistance of witnesses.

II.—Collection of Preliminary Information.

5. The Commission will assemble during October next, and, as soon as possible afterwards, will proceed by touring through the Provinces to collect evidence through independent witnesses, representatives of local Governments and institutions, and by personal inspection of industries and enterprises.

4. It is clear at the United time at the disposal of the Commission. It would be an advantage to have at least a representative Commission, composed of a Director of Industries or an Advisory Board, to be in this and have already been taken by some of the local Governments.

5. These representative Provincial Commissions would be responsible for giving evidence to the Commission. The Provincial Commissions would compile lists of raw materials available locally and as necessary material, or even as the principal raw materials, and also lists of raw materials that might be imported. From this and other information at their disposal, they would form lists of industries, already listed or not, that appear to be suitable for encouragement according to the special circumstances of each Province, withing attention to enterprises that have been already successful or otherwise. They might probably make detailed and, where necessary, detailed studies of a few typical examples of several industries, in order that the means which have contributed to such success may be brought to the notice of the Commission. They would also advise the Commission as to the nature of suitable industrial or representative witnesses.

6. It is suggested that, during the next cold weather season, the time at the disposal of the Commission in each Province might be divided as follows:—

- (a) examination of individual witnesses, with, as convenient,
- (b) visits to typical works or industrial centres, followed by
- (c) a general interview between the Commission and the representative Provincial Commissions.

7. The Commission will devote from a fortnight to three weeks to work of the larger Provinces, and it will be an advantage to obtain from each local Government, before the end of September, a programme indicating the most suitable centres for taking evidence and the most suitable places for visits to representative industries. It will be necessary to obtain, about the same time, a list of the individual witnesses mentioned, in order that they may be supplied, about the middle of October, with a series of questions for the purpose of their preliminary written statements. It may be possible, in some cases, however, to ascertain after the data obtained on special subjects, for the Provincial Commissions will doubtless take care that, in giving such advice, the programme in each case is not restricted.

III.—DEVELOPMENT OF CIVIL ADMINISTRATION.

10. Under this heading come problems connected with the establishment or development of Imperial and Provincial Departments which are connected, in one way or another, with industrial enterprise. In some Provinces, there are already at work Directors of Industries, named by local Governments, and in some cases, advised by Boards of Industries, while in other Provinces, proposals for a similar organisation are under consideration. It is obvious that, in every Province, proposals for a similar organisation are under consideration. It is obvious that, in every Province, proposals for a similar organisation are under consideration. It is obvious that, in every Province, proposals for a similar organisation are under consideration.

11. It has been suggested that such central organisations might be formed for some of the following:—

- (a) chemistry, including agricultural, metallurgical, medicinal, and pharmaceutical chemistry;
- (b) the leather and hide industries;
- (c) glass-making;
- (d) sugar and alcohol manufacturing;
- (e) paper-making; and
- (f) oil-seed industries.

12. Questions might be obtained as to whether any Imperial Departments of this description should be constituted, and, if so, for what subjects. The subject of the constitution of such departments should also be considered, that is, whether their heads should be purely advisory, with legislative powers, as in the Forest Department, or should have administrative and executive control as in the earlier and more specialised Geological Survey Department.

13. It will be important also to obtain evidence as to the organisation of Provincial Industrial Departments, and the advisability of instituting Provincial Boards of Industries, or Advisory Commissions, to advise non-official members. Evidence as to the constitution and functions of these Boards or Commissions should be obtained.

14. Finally, it will be necessary to obtain opinions regarding the relationship of a Provincial Industries Department with an Imperial Department of the kind mentioned in paragraph 11.

15. Evidence might also be obtained on the following points:—

- (a) the suitability of the present system of collecting and distributing statistics and commercial intelligence, by the Director of Statistics and the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence, respectively;
- (b) the advisability of establishing or creating special journals for the chief industries and also general industrial and trade journals;
- (c) any suggestions for advantages which have followed the issue of special monographs and other Government publications such as those of the Forest and Geological Departments;
- (d) the formation of commercial centres, and of sales agencies, or of commercial expeditions, in the principal towns of India and possibly abroad, for the display and sale of the products of unorganised village industries;
- (e) the institution of periodical industrial exhibitions;
- (f) the appointment of trade representatives in other Provinces, and, for the whole of India, in Great Britain, the Colonies and Foreign countries;
- (g) the possibility of establishing more systems of Government certificates regarding the quality of products, recognised by the institution of testing laboratories;
- (h) the regulation of trade marks and the marking of the patent laws;
- (i) the suitability of the present law for the acquisition of land on behalf of industrial occupations.

IV.—GENERAL ADVICE TO LEARNERS.

<sup>14</sup> Endorsements suitable for collection regarding the experience as far obtained at London and industrial assistance rendered to industrial enterprises, and opinions might be obtained as to the most suitable form in which Government aid can be given to assist or to new industries.

11. The following methods have been suggested, and some have been tried, at different times:

- (a) making various laws have been proposed, and some have been tried, at different times;
- (b) some are still in process of going to and
- (c) supply of machinery
- (d) Government demands for a plan by Government on the hire purchase system;
- (e) of the expenditure incurred in paying demands at the Government rate;
- (f) Government Government purchase of products for limited periods;
- (g) conversion of land;
- (h) special railway transport facilities and rates;
- (i) bonuses and subsidies;
- (j) providing insurance and housing loans only to private companies;
- (k) loss of services of Government employees of experts.

18. With regard to any of these forms of direct Government assistance, it will be important to obtain opinions as to whether, and to what extent, they could be counteracted by Government action, as far as business is concerned. The information collected by surveys placed on special duty will assist the President and the Commission in considering the action to which Government should in any instance take response with those already existing and with established national trends.

V.—Technical and Scientific Work.

19. (4) What can be done to improve the labourer's efficiency and skill, generally or in particular industries? What advantages have followed from the establishment of industrial schools? What experience has been gained as regards apprentices in families or workshops?

(c) What additional benefits have local industries received from treatment of wastewater?

(f) What experience has been gained from demonstration factories? It would be interesting to obtain opinions as to why and what kind of, incentive should be instituted in such factories.

[illegible]<sup>12</sup> = Miscellaneous Comments

(4) Factors for the development of tuberculosis.

- (4) Explain by the development of hydro-electric power and the position of apparently similar power above the various divisions.

(c) Have any local difficulties been noticed in the working of the new mining and prospecting rules since September, 1917? Are there any minerals that are essential for industries of importance that ought to be developed at public expense, for example, minerals of domestic interest for the manufacture of machines of war, or substances which are sources of domestic electricity from sea energy?
